MAYO'S LIFE HANGING BY A THREAD.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 10.—A pint of blood, a brother's sacrifice, was the toll exact today in the fight John C. C.
Mayo, Democratic National Committeeman from Kentucky, and multi-million aire coal and lumber king of Pikeville Ky., is making for his life against the ravage of Bright's disease at the Jewish Hospital in Cincinnati.

LET UNCLE SAM
GIVE YOU THE FACTS

Government reports show the steady output of coal during the last few years has made the dealers push for wider markets. We are going to get more trade—your trade—by giving you a greater value for your money.
You will never get out of debt unless you buy wisely.

The New Edison Diamond Point
Disc Phonograph
Shown at J. T. Kackley & Co.'s

ITS FEATURES—No needles to change. Perfect tone. Automatic stop. A new tone-modifier, adjusted by a simple touch, gives any degree of softness or loudness of tone. All other records can be used.
Every sound, syllable and word is perfectly distinct. In singing, the human voice is reproduced without any squeaky mechanical defects.
It seems the singer is before you. In instrumental music, every instrument, in solo or combination, is absolutely reproduced. Keep your old records; they will sound better on the new Edison, better than they ever sounded to you before on any other instrument. Come in and hear them.

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC

Smallpox Cases Known To Exist in Lewis County, Kentucky.

Vineburg, Ky.—Conditions in Lewis County as the result of an epidemic of smallpox, which has been spreading for a month without any efforts to check it, are alarming according to a telegram sent by Governor McCreary from Alva West, dated Cincinnati. The telegram said:

"There are 50 cases of smallpox in Lewis County. Epidemic for last month.
County Board of Health taking no action to establish quarantine. Five cases reported this morning. Condition serious. Urge you to take action immediately."

Governor McCreary transmitted the message to Dr. Arthur McCormack, secretary of the State Board of Health, Bowling Green, with the request that prompt action be taken.

DOING GOOD WORK

B. C. T. U., Organized For Moral Uplift, Getting Jobs For Paroled Men.

Hopkinsville.—The Brotherhood of Christian Temperance Union, organized for the moral uplift of convicts, is doing good work in placing paroled men from the two Kentucky State prisons.
Already the union has found work for four convicts recently released under the DeLoess decision, and has applications for others on file. Many of these have been placed in Christian County, and Southern Kentucky, but a number have been sent to Ohio, Tennessee and Indiana. The B. C. T. U. is a national organization, with headquarters in Hopkinsville. The president is W. P. Snyder, a successful business man of this city. He has four convicts in his employ. The secretary is George Allen, an ex-convict, pardoned by Gov. McCreary.
Allen was converted in a religious meeting at Edwylville, and is spending all his time helping convicts.

Under $2,000 Bond For Causing Death of Mrs. Walton.

The Fleming will case is occupying the attention of the court. It will probably go to the jury this morning.
The Grand Jury returned the following indictments Thursday and Friday:

Lucien Luttrell, voluntary manslaughter. Bail fixed at $2,000. It will be remembered that Luttrell had the misfortune to run down Mrs. Ed Walton on the pike near Mayfield, which subsequently resulted in the death of Mrs.
Walton.

YE
Corn Raisers

In this day of progressive farming, it has become absolutely necessary to secure the largest possible returns from the land, and as corn has become the most important and valuable crop, special attention should be given to the selections of both the seed and the planter. We believe that in selling you the John Deere "Oblique Selection" two-horse corn planter, we are giving you the very best planter on the market today. "Oblique Selection" is the name given this perfected seed dropping device which repeated tests show is as far ahead of the old edge drop as the edge drop was ahead of the round hole plate. It takes its name from the fact that the surface of the hopper bottom and the openings for the seed cells are oblique or sloping. With the old edge drop, the kernels had to be tipped on edge before they could enter the cells at all. The weight of the corn in the hopper interfered with this action—consequently cut down the accuracy. The John Deere Planter overcomes all these old fashioned troubles, and we would like you to come in during this week's Opening Demonstrations and hear about it and see the machine. There's an expert here who can answer all your questions.

NEVER, said Frederick Bronson, "But, father, Billy replied, 'You haven't seen her. You haven't any right to say what you have said about her, merely because you once quarreled with her father, and still cherish a grudge against him.'"

"Whether I have any right to say it or not, you may as well give up the idea of persuading me to ever have anything more to do with you if you marry her. Rather than receive a daughter of Henry Brooks as a member of my family I'd cut off my right arm. If you wish to break my heart and have me disinherit you go ahead and marry her—if she'll have you. Now you know exactly where I stand."

Billy Bronson looked at his father steadily for a moment and was silent. He thought of Helen Brooks and it was with difficulty that he controlled himself. He was strongly inclined to tell his father to do his worst—to fling defiance in his face. He kept his head, however, and without betraying his emotion, asked:

"What was the trouble between you and her father?"

"I don't care to speak about that now," the older man replied. "He is dead. Let him rest in his grave. I merely give you notice that no daughter of his can ever set her foot inside my door—much less expect me to receive her as a member of my family."

"But Helen is the loveliest girl in the world," Billy fervently replied. "If you could only see her I know you'd change your mind. Besides, do you think it is fair to hold her responsible for anything her father may have done?"

"I don't hold her responsible. I merely don't want a daughter of

"Now You Know Exactly Where I Stand."

Henry Brooks to become the wife of my son. As for her being so lovely, that's all both. I suppose her experience on the stage has given her a mastery of the arts that young women of the world learn, so that she has been able to cast a spell over you. Take my advice and have nothing more to do with her. I don't believe any girl can lead that kind of a life and remain good."

"If Helen isn't good and pure," Billy indignantly replied, "there isn't a good and pure girl in the world. She hasn't really been on the stage, you know. She has merely sung in opera a few times. She says she doesn't care for the life and would much prefer to find a place in some church choir."

"I suppose she has merely been saying that to pull the wool over your eyes. But it doesn't interest me at all. I don't want to hear anything more about her. You'll oblige me by never referring to her again in my presence."

"Very well," said Billy, squaring his shoulders and permitting a set of his jaw to become a little more determined than ever. "I'll never bother you with the subject again—only I wish you would tell me what her father did to make you feel so bitter. I think you owe me that much, if you expect me to regard your wishes concerning Helen."

"It was a business matter. He was as bitter against me as I have been against him; so you may console yourself by remembering that if he were alive he would be just as strongly opposed to you as I am opposed to his daughter. Now let the whole thing drop. I refuse to discuss it any further."

Billy spent a wretched night. He was unable to sleep and spent the long hours thinking of Helen and trying to make up his mind to give up everything else for her. When morning came he was fully determined. In fact he had been determined from the first, but he had debated the question with himself in all its phases, and had been unable to arrive at any other conclusion than that Helen Brooks was more to him than everything else in the world.

He decided, however, that it would be useless to make his decision known as long as a declaration was unnecessary. There was one thing that bothered him more than his father's opposition to Helen. That was his fear that she would never consent to be his wife if she learned that their parents had been enemies, and he felt that he was in honor bound to tell her. While he was thinking the matter over at breakfast he was called to the telephone and informed that Mrs. Wallingford, the soprano of the church choir of which he was the director, had been stricken with appendicitis and would be compelled to undergo an operation at once. This would make it impossible for her to sing on Easter, which was only three days away. Elaborate preparations had been made for an extra musical program, and Billy was perplexed.

Madonna with the Holy Child

Mrs. Wallingford had the reputation of being the best soprano in the city. People crowded Rev. Dr. Williamson's church as much on her account as on account of the eloquence of the minister. Without a good soprano, the Easter service would be sadly marred.

Billy hurried to Dr. Williamson to consult him about it.

"We simply must have somebody who can take Mrs. Wallingford's place," said the reverend gentleman. "Easter is the occasion of all occasions when we ought to have our choir at its best. You must find somebody—somehow."

Billy suddenly brightened.

"I will find somebody," he said. "I think I know a young lady who will come."

"Get her, by all means. If she can sing," the clergyman urged, and Billy hastened to Helen.

"I have an engagement for you for Easter," he said. "Will you come?" There was a sparkle in her beautiful eyes, and a look of gladness overspread her face as she replied:

"I should think I would. You don't know how sorry I have been to think I was not going to have a chance to sing anywhere on Easter. Tell me all about it."

He hastily explained the situation and she agreed with much enthusiasm to fill Mrs. Wallingford's place.

"Only it's too bad," she said, "that the engagement had to come because of another's misfortune. You will have very little time and I will need to rehearse, you know."

When Easter Sunday came Billy Bronson was in a state of nervousness such as was not at all common to him. He had never worked as he had worked during those three days, and he felt ready to collapse when he took his place in the choir. Looking out his father in a pew well down toward the front.

When Helen rose to sing her solo Billy held his breath and watched his father. He saw the old gentleman lean forward in his pew as the rich, sweet, sympathetic strains floated out. He had never heard such singing before, and the loveliness of the singer entranced him. The sternness faded out of Frederick Bronson's countenance; the spirit of Easter crept into his breast, and a look of glad benevolence overspread his face.

Dr. Williamson's sermon proved to be the most eloquent he had ever preached. He had found his text in the Second Epistle of Peter: "And in your godliness brotherly kindness; and in your brotherly kindness love."

Frederick Bronson had been proud to consider himself a hard-headed man of business. He had become rich by pursuing a course that was uncompromising. He had the reputation of being relentless in dealing with his foes, and while he was always honest, according to the letter there may have been times when he was not exactly so in spirit. He began to wonder, as he sat there, listening to the preacher, whether he had been altogether fair in his dealings with Helen Brooks. It had never before occurred to him that he might have been in the wrong. Now he was not so sure that all the virtue had been on his side. He half regretted some of the things he had said to his son concerning the daughter of his dead enemy.

At the end of the service Mr. Bronson was in a very mellow state. He had hardly seen Billy for three days, and he wanted to grasp his son by the hand and offer him a word of congratulation on the success he had achieved in carrying out the musical program of the morning. When he had reached the vestibule he paused and looked back, but Billy was talking with a group of his friends.

He drew a deep sigh and went outside. His limousine was waiting for him at the curb. He was about to step into the vehicle when a hand was laid on his shoulder, and, turning, he looked into his son's radiant face.

"Hello, Billy," he said. "Get in. We'll ride home together."

"Won't you wait a minute, father?" Billy replied. "There's some one whom I want you to meet."

"Who is your new soprano?" Frederick Bronson asked.

"I will bring her out and introduce her to you," said Billy, and he rushed back into the church.

Mr. Bronson was holding the door of the limousine open when they approached him.

"Father," said Billy, "I want you to let me introduce Helen Brooks."

The old gentleman straightened up suddenly, was silent for a moment, and then, taking Helen's outstretched hand in his, said:

"This is the finest Easter day I ever saw. Come on, let's go home before somebody else gets you away from us."

Lighter Side of Easter

(By HENRY HOWLAND.)

WHAT do you think of my Easter hat, Bessie? Mrs. Waddums asked when the maid entered and found her admiring herself before her mirror.

"It's kind of nice," Bessie replied. "I almost bought it myself yesterday; but they told me, when I tried it on, that it wasn't young enough for me, and that it was intended for a middle-aged person."

Ten minutes later Mrs. Waddums had informed Chaglit & Sellum that her hat didn't suit her, and that she would return it, with the hope that they would have the decency to let her have her money back.

When Henry Waddums had been informed by his wife that the hat had been returned and that the price had been refunded, he went to the maid and said:

"Bessie, you did that very well. I'm going to authorize Mrs. Waddums to raise your wages a dollar a week."

Dropped.
Gladys—So you're keeping Lent? What have you given up?
Myrtle—Two of my beaux. I really didn't have any regular evenings left for them any way.

Never Deceived.
A man may not be able to tell the difference, but a woman always knows whether an Easter hat is home-made or not.

Not Always.
"I suppose you sometimes feel sorry that your children are all boys."
"Yes; but never at Easter time."

Quarantined.
"Drummond's a lucky chap, isn't he?"
"Why do you think so?"

"His wife and daughters have all been down with the measles during the last three weeks, and couldn't get out to have anything made for Easter."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. BELLER, Director of Evening Department, The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR APRIL 12

THE JOURNEY TO EMMAUS.

(Easter Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:13-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Who is he that shall condemn? It is Christ Jesus that died, yea rather, that was raised from the dead, who is at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us." Rom. 8:34.

We turn aside today to consider as the Easter lesson a well-known event in connection with the several appearances of our Lord after his resurrection. One of the many infallible proofs, Acts 1:3; 1 Cor. 15:4. The narrative of this journey is one of the most beautiful post-resurrection stories, simple, clear and of great value. It is related, evidently, by an eye witness. The Cleopas mentioned is not the son of Mary, John 19:25. The name of the second pilgrim is but a conjecture, though we somehow feel it was Luke himself. The journey was about seven and one-half miles and most likely they were returning to their homes after the Passover. Somewhere on the way a stranger joined them who asked the nature of their conversation, and the cause of their evident sadness (v. 17). In astonishment, Cleopas answers, but the stranger continues and adroitly draws out their entire story.

Interesting Progression.

1. Their Disappointment, vv. 13-24. It is all too evident that they did not expect a resurrection and that, filled with perplexity and discouragement they were on the verge of despair. It is interesting in this lesson to observe the progression (1) "and they talked" v. 14; (2) "and they found not," v. 23; (3) "and they saw not," v. 24; (4) "and they constrained him," v. 29; (5) "and they knew him," v. 31; (6) "and they said," v. 32; (7) "and the Lord is risen," v. 34; (8) "and they talked," v. 35. As they "talked" it was revealed that their loving hearts were full of sadness and empty of faith, yet to talk is often the only way to find relief from the gnawing of grief.

There seem (v. 15 R. V.) to have been two opinions and in their slowness of heart and unbelief they did not recognize their new companion. In response to his query they told how this Jesus had been delivered, condemned, crucified, and then revealed that this was to them the end of all things, for said they, "We had hoped that it was he." Are we willing to should have part in our every conversation? Continuing they told the amazing tale related by the women and, moreover, that their statement of an empty tomb had been verified by certain women who had gone to investigate, but, in conclusion, they again reverted to their sadness by saying, "They found his body" and moreover, "They saw not." Such mystery, such disappointment was too great. Still there was a trace of faith remaining in that he was still to them "a prophet almighty in word and deed," but he was not Christ the son of the living God. The trouble was they were expecting a man (v. 21), and to remove the man meant to remove all hope. His death was a mystery, and not necessarily a part of the work of redemption, and thereby a proof of his being the Redeemer of Israel. They must have remembered his words (v. 21), yet three days are now past and still they had not seen him. The report of the women was to them only an "idle tale" (Luke 24:11), still it was incomprehensible that "him they found not."

Cause of Sadness.

II. His Appointment, vv. 25-35. Evidently the journey was continued and he gently rebukes them for their slowness of heart to believe the record of their own prophets. All sadness, practically, arises from unbelief in the Word of God, Phil. 4:6, 7; Rom. 8:28-32. He interpreted to them the true Messianic teaching of our scriptures. He charges them with folly not to believe "all" of the record (v. 26). True wisdom is not that of skepticism which cuts out portions of the word, but, according to Jesus, it consists in believing all of the Scriptures. At last they reach Emmaus, still, let us remember, not knowing who it is walking with them. The road beyond was dangerous and "they constrained him" to accept their hospitality. As he sat at the table partaking of the ordinary evening meal, he assumed the place of the host, took the bread, blessed it and broke it. Instantly those old familiar acts and words revealed to them who it was that had walked by the way. In that moment they knew him, and immediately he vanished. As one awakened from a dream they seem to have had a vague recollection and to have known nothing of any fear, but now with a new gladness in their hearts at the verity and reality of things they hastened back to Jerusalem where "they told what things were done in the way and how he was known of them in breaking of bread," v. 35.

III. Teaching Points. This narrative is so full of teaching and yet so clear and simple that it is hard to suggest any ordinary deductions therefrom. The story does, however, reveal the interest of the risen Lord in the doubt of these two disciples. That they were probably not of the twelve is evident by the fact that when they returned to Jerusalem they found the eleven assembled (v. 33). Thus we see him going to those outside of that inner circle, also, two who loved him seeking a solution of the mystery and consolation for their sad hearts. First, hiding his identity, he drew from them their story. He then took them back to their Scriptures, with which they must have been familiar, and revealed to them that this mystery was according to these holy writings.

Uric Acid is Slow Poison

Unseen in its approach, hard to detect in its early stages, and cruelly painful in its later forms, uric acid poisoning is a disease too often fatal. Bright's disease is one of the final stages of uric acid poisoning. It kills in our country every year more men and women than any other ailment except two—consumption and pneumonia. Bright's disease and uric acid poisoning usually start in some kidney weakness that would not be hard to cure, if discovered early, so it is well to know the early signs of kidney disease and uric acid poisoning.

When uric acid is formed too fast and the kidneys are weakened by a cold, or fever, by overwork, or by over-indulgences, the acid collects, the blood gets impure and heavy, there is headache, dizziness, heart palpitation, and a dull, heavy-headed, drowsy feeling with disturbances of the uric acid.

Real torture begins when the uric acid forms into gravel or stone in the kidney, or crystallizes into jagged bits in the muscles, joints or on the nerve tubings. Then follow the awful pains of neuralgia, rheumatism, gout, sciatica, neuritis, lumbago or kidney colic.

"I don't know what ails me."

It is but a further step to dropy or Bright's disease. Be warned by backache, by sediment in the kidney secretions, by painful, scant or too frequent passages. Cure the weak and ened kidneys. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a medicine made just for weak kidneys, that has been proved good in years of use. In thousands of cases—the remedy that is recommended by grateful users from coast to coast.

CONFINED TO BED A Story of Terrible Suffering From Kidney Disease

Mrs. Eliza Kirk, Main St., Spencer, Ind., says: "When my back began to get lame, I didn't pay much attention to the trouble and as the result, I got worse. I made a sudden move, the pain in my back was like a knife thrust. The next symptoms were dizziness, languor and a worn-out feeling. I went to the doctor, but his medicine didn't help me. I began to have terrible nervous spells and in three months I was a physical wreck. My limbs and hands became useless from rheumatic pains and I had to be fed, dressed and helped at every turn. My limbs swelled and I would rather be dead than go through that suffering again. All this time, I was in bed and I was only relieved. The kidney secretions were in a terrible state. When I had almost given up hope, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and five boxes put me on my feet. Eight boxes cured me. For over seven years I have remained cured."

HIS MIND ON HIGHER THINGS

Scholar Unable to Sit Down and Reason Quietly on Matters of Everyday Life.

A monument was recently unveiled to the memory of Henri Poincaré, the famous mathematician and physicist, who was a cousin of the president of France. The occasion recalls a story or two of his remarkable absent-mindedness.

Almost every day Poincaré left his money lying about somewhere. Finally his mother sewed his purse into the pocket of his coat. But one day, when he had dressed in a hotel, he put on his overcoat without the coat, and left that lying on a chair. Needless to say, he never saw the purse again.

One evening he was looking in a closed bookcase for a manuscript. During the search he set the lamp on a shelf in the case, and in a moment of abstraction closed the door of the cabinet, and sat down in darkness. After he had pondered for a time on the disappearance of the light, he came to the conclusion that he had suddenly become blind. That seemed to him quite possible, since his eyes were weak, anyway, and he groaned at the thought of his deplorable condition. Suddenly, to his surprise, a stream of light appeared coming from the adjoining room and he remarked, with much satisfaction: "My sight seems to have come back again." Not even then did he think of the lamp in the bookcase!—Youth's Companion.

Water for St. Petersburg.

The city council of St. Petersburg is considering a measure appropriating $25,000,000 for a supply of pure water, to be drawn from Lake Ladoga, 40 miles away. On reaching the Ladoga pumping station the water will be driven into reservoirs and filters, whence it will flow through the pipes unaided to the capital and there distributed. The capacity of the works, which will be ready in 1920, is calculated for a population of 4,500,000.

DRY SCALE COVERED HEAD

2760 Tamm Ave., St. Louis, Mo.—"My little daughter's head began with a dry harsh scale covering it. First it got a white scale over the top and then it got a dirty brown scale with pus under it. Her hair came out in less than a week and her head itched and bled. She had no rest. I had her wear a scarf all the time, it looked so badly. She was so sore and had such big brown scabs on her head that the teacher would not let her attend school.

"We took and had her treated for three months with no relief. She kept getting worse until I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Cuticura Soap every third day and the Cuticura Ointment at night. In three weeks her head was well of sores. Two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment completely cured her." (Signed) Mrs. Walter Rogers, Nov. 28, 1912.

Pennsylvania's coal production is almost as great as that of the other twenty-seven producing States. "Mrs. Pankhurst," says an admirer, "is ahead of her time. She was born too soon." That depends. Mrs. P. could have made quite a hit in the French Revolution.—Charleston News and Courier.

HERE Y'ARE, WHY YOUNG MEN ADMIRE THE GIRLS.

Prof. Theodore W. Richards, of Cincinnati, president of the American Chemical Society, meeting at Cincinnati, has discovered why young men admire young women. The difference between her and a chemical laboratory is what causes the admiration, he says. Girls are mostly chemical laboratories, he avers. Her smiles and even the debatable slouch are only results of chemical reaction.

LOOKS LIKE COMMON SENSE.

The Colorado courts have been wrestling with the problem of what constitutes the gross proceeds of ore, which is one of the elements entering into the valuation of mines for the purposes of taxation under the law of that State. The question resolved itself into this: (1) Are the gross proceeds of an ore what the miner realizes at his place of production; (2) or what he realizes after he has delivered it to the smelter's works. The Supreme Court of Colorado, after pronouncing in favor of the latter construction, has reversed itself and adopted the former, which looks to us like common sense.

THE KENTUCKY BLACKBERRY.

Commissioner Newman, of the State Department of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics, recently made the prediction that Kentucky would some day be famous as a producer of blackberries. "No place in the world," he said, "grows blackberries like Kentucky."

The blackberries is indigenous to Kentucky soil. Probably there is no place where it grows in greater profusion. The plants spring up in unexpected places and they multiply rapidly. The native blackberry grows anywhere and everywhere, and is marvelously prolific. On this account not much attention has been paid to its cultivation, though it responds handsomely to careful tending.

It would be impossible to produce better blackberries, so far as quality and general utility are concerned, than can be grown in Kentucky. It may be that there are localities where bigger berries are produced, but certainly there is no place where better ones are grown. In this respect the situation is the same as with regard to strawberries. The simple truth is that Kentucky is a great berry State, but its greatness lies more in its prospects than in its achievements. Kentucky strawberries invariably find ready sale in the big city markets, and blackberries, if they were grown as a commercial proposition, quite as readily would find favor.

Really the Kentucky blackberry has never had a fair show. It is the most common of all the small fruits and berries. It has been aptly called "the poor man's fruit," and because of its very abundance it has not received the consideration that it deserved. It is the one luxury in the fruit line that has been in reach of the masses, growing in the fields, in the woods, in the fence corners, along the streams, on the hills and in the valleys—in some localities almost as omnipresent as grass itself. The presence of the plant has been so general that it is often regarded as a pest and "brier-cutting" is a part of the yearly agricultural performance in many sections of the State.

If the blackberry were a rare fruit its price would be above rubies or diamonds in the mine. Here in Kentucky where the crop is as certain as death and taxes, it sometimes finds a slow sale in the village markets at ten cents a bushel. Kentucky ought to develop the blackberry and make money and fame out of it.—Courier-Journal.

Tangoing helps the farmer, says the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer, and proceeds to prove it as follows: "These new dances call for a vast increase in phonograph records; phonograph records are made out of a composition into which denatured alcohol largely enters, and denatured alcohol is strictly a farm product made out of potatoes and other farm waste." By the same process of reasoning, we might say that the tango will boom the turpentine industry in North Carolina, for tangoing makes the muscles sore, sore muscles drive the tangoists to a liniment rub, and most of the popular liniments contain a certain percentage of turpentine.—Louisville Times.

THE SHREWD ADVERTISER.

Advertising! The thoughtful man thinks ahead. The prudent man profits by his ability to forecast the future as well as to scrutinize the present. One of the most prominent advertisers in the country says he makes it a rule to increase his advertising appropriation whenever business slackens, and he doubles and trebles it in times of severe business depression. This is his logical conclusion: "The new customers that I get when times are hard I always keep when times become good. They come to me largely from those who lose them because they fail to continue their publicity campaigns. A business depression in this country never lasts long, and it is always seed time for me. The harvest follows when prosperity returns." It is a wise man who knows his own business better than the other maid oes. Leslie's Weekly.

LESSON IN POLITENESS.

A Minneapolis school has lessons in street car courtesy. Chairs are arranged to represent seats in a car and these are occupied by boys. Presently a number of girls, representing women, enter the car, and, of course, the lesson is for the boys to get up and give them the seats. This they do, and thus get the habit, so that in actual life they do not forget their politeness.

Exercises of this kind promote the very best education. It is a sort that, according to the doctrines of this column, train the spirit, and unless this is trained it makes no difference how the mind is developed. Canoe-root will never match courtesy in helping one to the higher levels of life. What are the fruits of the spirit we ask again and again? Giving up your seat to a lady on the street car. You may read the Annals and Virgil offhand, but if you fail in courtesy your education is only superficial. We will never reach true progress unless this lesson is learned.—Ohio State Journal.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE.

The Vanquishing of Vermicelli.
He came from fair Italia land,
Of sunny skies and the Black Hand;
And let it here be plainly said,
He painted every township red.

Shortly after 9 o'clock that morning Asperigo Vermicelli drew his gleaming stiletto and began to eat.

The morning was quite dark for 9 o'clock. There was no one to see. There was no sound to hear, only the zip, zip of Vermicelli's stiletto. Zip, zip, and again and again, zip! zip!

At 11 o'clock Asperigo Vermicelli's stiletto could still be seen flashing in the dark morning air.

"Vendettii!" he cried hoarsely. "Vendettii!" Both times hoarsely.

"I shall not be foiled!" hissed Vermicelli. "Carraubi! Titta Ruffo! Fortissimo!"

It is 1 o'clock in the afternoon. High overhead an ominous black bird hovered.

The overhead sun glinted on the darting stiletto. There was no moon.

IV.
The red sun was busily setting when Vermicelli finally cast his stiletto to the ground with a terrible oath.

"Carraubi!" he shrieked. "Six o'clock and I haven't gotten this pencil sharpened yet. Visececi!" And with another oath almost as terrible, he threw the remaining three-quarters of an inch of his new pencil to the four winds.—Louisville Times.

WAS MISERABLE COULDN'T STAND

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lackawanna, N. Y.—"After my first child was born I felt very miserable and could not stand on my feet. My sister-in-law wished me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my nerves became firm, appetite good, step elastic, and I lost that weak, tired feeling. That was six years ago and I have had three fine healthy children since. For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. F. KREMER, 1574 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Women who suffer from these distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

CORRESPONDENCE

GERMANTOWN.

P. J. Jolly returned to Portsmouth, Ohio, Tuesday, after a week's visit at the home of Luther Dickson.

Miss Louise Small was called to Portsmouth, Ohio, Tuesday by the serious illness of her brother.

Jack Wallingford and wife have moved here from Mayfield, occupying a part of the hotel property. Mr. Wallingford is running the auto bus line between here and Augusta, which made its first trip on Monday.

Henry Thompson, of Sharpsburg, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Maurice Armstrong, were guests at the Popper home the latter part of last week. He lost his wife by death about two weeks ago and returned with his daughter to her home in Iowa, where he will probably make his home.

The present term of the Dover Public School will close in less than two weeks.

Every time a circus comes to town the "easy marks" hold a mass convention.

"You are joking!"

"No, I'm not. The floral offerings were beautiful."

It is stated by buyers that 27,000,000 pounds of tobacco, nearly a normal crop, has been delivered in the Green River district, although it had been claimed that the production was unusually small.

A parole will not be granted to August Ropke, sentenced from Louisville for embezzlement, because his sentence is consecutive and he is therefore not entitled to a parole.

There are various methods. Had Ann been a truthful person he long ago would have been forgotten, and Cleopatra owes such distinction as is hers to the fact that she was not a good woman.

For selling liquor without a Government license, William Gibbs, aged 79, mountaineer whose hair is snowy white, was sentenced to serve 60 days in the Knox County jail, Wednesday, when he was re-arrested before Judge A. M. J. Cochran in the Federal court in Covington.

A REAL FAMILY MAN.

Danville, Ky., April 6.—Dr. Thomas Washington, aged eighty-one years, who resides on his farm, eight miles north of Danville, is a man after Col. Roosevelt's own heart. He has been married four times and is the father of forty-four children, thirty-nine of whom are living.

MAY COMPROMISE

Proposition Is Made To Fire Insurance Companies By State—Adjustment of Deadlock Expected.

Louisville, Ky., April 8.—Prospects for an adjustment of the fire insurance deadlock today became brighter when Kuby Lafoon, chairman of the State Insurance Board, submitted to a meeting of business men from all over Kentucky, a proposition for the consideration of the insurance companies by which the State authorities agree to make certain concessions in the hope that similar concessions will be made by the companies.

LIFE TENURE FOR TEACHERS PROPOSED.

Recommendations that the rural school teacher be employed for life and that each be furnished with a house and plot of land for his home were made by B. T. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education, at a session of the Conference for Education in the South at Louisville.

FEEBLE OLD PEOPLE

Are Told How to Regain Strength and Vigor.

As one grows old the waste of the system becomes more rapid than repair, the organs act more slowly and less effectively than in youth, the circulation is poor, the blood thin and digestion weak.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil is the ideal strengthener and body-builder for old folks, for it contains the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissues and replace weakness with strength. Vinol also fortifies the system against colds and thus prevents pneumonia.

Mrs. Mary Ivey, of Columbus, Ga., says: "If people only knew the good Vinol does old people, I am sure you would be unable to supply the demand. I never took anything before that did me so much good as Vinol. It is the finest tonic and strength creator I ever used in my life. If Vinol fails to build up the feeble, old people, and create strength we will return your money. J. C. Pecor, Drug-gist, Mayfield, Ky."

DOCTOR SAID HE HAD DROPSY

Some time ago I had an attack of dropsy which finally settled in my kidneys and bladder. I doctored with the doctors and they claimed I had dropsy. I tried other remedies and got no relief from any of them. My condition was such that I was unable to work for about two months and the annoying symptoms caused me a great deal of trouble and pain. I was hardly able to turn over in bed. Seeing one of your Almanacs, I decided to give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a trial and after taking several bottles was able to resume my work again. I cannot say too much in praise of your Swamp-Root as the results in my case were truly wonderful.

Yours very truly,

Coffee Drinkers, And Think a Minute

Some persons seem able, for a time at least, to get along with coffee, but it contains a subtle, habit-forming drug, caffeine, which sooner or later is pretty sure to rob one of health and comfort.

If you know coffee don't harm you—if you feel prime and fit under its continued use, well and good—stick to it.

But—if you are sometimes a bit "off color," and irritable nerves, disturbed heart action, biliousness, headache, or symptoms of liver or kidney trouble make you wonder what's the matter—

Better find out what coffee has to do with it.

Evidently some people are learning the truth about coffee—listen—

During 1913 the sales of coffee in this country decreased over one hundred million pounds.

A mighty army of former coffee drinkers now use and enjoy freedom from the old coffee aches and pains.

POSTUM

Postum, made of whole wheat and a bit of molasses, is a delicious table beverage absolutely free from the coffee drugs, caffeine and tannin.

If you are interested in bettering yourself—think it over.

Postum now comes in two forms.

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder, requires no boiling. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

—sold by Grocers everywhere.

EMINENT HEROES IN HOSPITAL.

Attendants at the city hospital had just placed George Washington in a bed in the medical ward yesterday when a call was received to come and get Henry Clay. The ambulance was sent out and the "statesman" was brought in and placed alongside the "general."

"What seems to be the matter with the father of his country?" asked in terms of the doctor who was diagnosing the first case.

"Declaration of independence," said the other, laughing as he wrote "pneumonia" on his pad.

"How about Clay?"

"I'd rather be right than President, but I'll have to guess—lack of nourishment, I think."

Washington is 36 years old, a negro employed as a janitor at the Y. M. C. A. Clay is 70 years old, and also a negro.—Courier-Journal.

THE PRACTICAL PHILOSOPHER.

(American Machinist.)

Application of that which is really observed is the pathway to opportunity for the mechanic, and once he starts on the pathway, he will be surprised to find how very elastic opportunity is.

A writer on principles of efficiency makes this statement: "We have interposed the device of wages between basic need and its satisfaction. Wages, therefore, acquire the importance of both, and wages are also the cushion between anarchy and civilization."

The life of the silent chain under automobile conditions is largely dependent on the wear at the joints. On account of the high speed and the whipping of the chain, it is important that the joints be well oiled. Efficient lubrication is the secret of efficient chain service.

Mandrels, as differentiated from arbors, are used to hold work, while arbors are used to hold tools. The design of a mandrel is frequently looked on as simple, but to make it capable of use, economically and rapidly, requires careful consideration of many important points.

Much can be done to increase a man's efficiency by strengthening the personal tie between the workman and the manager. If both remember that their attitudes to each other are practically those of buyer and seller, and demand the same tact and courtesy, many troubles would be avoided.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS.

Delaware, Ohio.—Fifty girls, members of the senior class which will be graduated this year from the Delaware High School, voted to use economy in the selection of their commencement dresses. After an animated discussion all agreed to wear plain white sailor suits with red ties. On the arm of each garment will appear the monogram "D. H. S. 14."

This summer there will be three ships sailing between Europe and America each more than 900 feet long.

COAL OPERATIONS

Big Tract of Land in Hazard Field to Be Developed at Once.

Hazard, Ky.—Hazard is soon to have what promises to be one of the largest coal operations in Eastern Kentucky. L. M. Buford and others, of Roanoke, Va., together with local coal men, have leased a 3,200-acre tract of coal land one mile south of Hazard. This tract is known as the Brown property and is owned by W. A. Brown, of Bristol, Va.; D. D. Hull, of Roanoke, Va., and others.

Since that lease was completed the Ashless Coal Company has been organized and incorporated under the laws of Virginia for the purpose of developing the lower part of the tract, which contains about 1,600 acres. This company has a capital stock of $150,000 and its chief officers are experienced coal men.

SALVET

This remarkable medicine will destroy every last worm in your hogs, sheep, and all other stock.

It is a wonderful tonic and conditioner, and will positively prevent infection. It goes direct to the worms—kills them—expels them—leaving the animal's stomach and intestines in prime condition, so that every ounce of food the animal eats goes to make a profit for you. Costs only 1-1/2 of a cent per day per head to feed.

On Saturday, April 4, the vote on the question of issuing bonds to the amount of $10,000, or so much thereof as necessary, to improve the public school building, was defeated, the vote being 30 to 52 against issuing bonds. Apparently, the citizens of Augusta are against a bond issue of any description, regardless of how worthy the cause may be.

NEW HOTEL LAW.

The new hotel law, which also applies to lodging houses and restaurants, will probably reduce the number now kept. Under this law 99-inch sheets, made of white linen or cotton, two of them on every bed and washed after once used, are required. Also, two clean towels every day in each room, and individual towels during certain hours in the washing rooms; a window in each room opening out of doors or into an air shaft; a hall way door; a chemical fire extinguisher or a stand pipe for every 2,500 feet of floor space; stairway fire escapes for three story buildings, and proper sanitary conveniences are among the specific requirements of the act. A $3 fee for a license and a tax of 25 cents the room, not to exceed $10 annually, to be collected from hotels for the support of the department.

MILLENMEYER SAYS FRUIT IS IN DANGER.

(Lexington Leader.)

H. F. Millemeyer, the veteran fruit grower of this county, said that the present cold snap would be harmful to peach and early plum blossoms, but that little injury would be done to other fruits. The injury to other crops, he said, would be confined almost entirely to early vegetables which had been set out, the planting of cabbage, especially having been practically completed. Mr. Millemeyer said that the extent of the injury would depend somewhat upon other climatic conditions, and that the damage would be greatly mitigated if the cold wave is accompanied by cloudy weather with the air stirring. The greatest danger from frost, he said, was to be feared on still, clear nights.

TURNED DOWN

Insurance Trust Still Bluffing and Refuse Terms Offered By State.

Louisville, Ky., April 9.—Three developments of much importance in the tangled Kentucky fire insurance situation came Thursday.

The first of these is that the fire insurance companies will not accept the compromise proposition of State Insurance Commissioner Latham as submitted. This is final and closes the door for settlement along that line of policy.

Her Remains Will Arrive Here Today—Death Resulted After An Operation At Speer's Hospital, Dayton.

The remains of Mrs. Burr Richardson, brief mention of whose death was made in yesterday's paper, will arrive today on C. & O. train No. 2 and will be taken directly to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson in Houston avenue from where they will be taken Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to the Washington Cemetery for interment. Mrs. Richardson had been a long and patient sufferer and had just recently undergone a serious operation at hospital in Dayton with the hopes of receiving relief from her suffering. After the operation she improved so much that her relatives and friends were encouraged to believe that she would recover. But it was not to be. She had been removed to her home and all that loving and tender care could do for her comfort was being done, but she soon suffered a relapse and declined rapidly until death at 9:30 Wednesday night.

ELECTRIC SIGNS!

The distinguishing air of quality which a first-class Electric Sign gives to a store is the element which gives a sign its greatest value as an advertising medium and investment. The impression it makes is good. It blazes forth to the public that there is business enterprise, merchandise and methods up-to-date. It affects the entire atmosphere of the business district. The stranger says, "It is a live town," and publishes it abroad. It is the Sign of the Times.

MAYBE it is an old fashioned idea this notion of putting all the value possible into the car itself—and as little as possible into overhead expense—

But it has given the Paige a positively dominant position among cars of medium price—

Ample capital for operating purposes—no bonded indebtedness—no excessive capitalization—no heavy overhead of any kind to be paid for.

Just a full dollar of car value for every dollar of the selling price.

Is it any wonder that the Paige is going to be oversold again this year in spite of increased production?
